3 and Irael sacrifiede to Belphagor. And
4 the Lord was wrooth to Moyses; Tak, he[i] seith, alle the prynces of the puple, and honge hem a3ens the sunne in iebettis, that my woodnes be turned awey fro
5 Yrael. And Moyses seide to the domesmen of Yrael, Sle echon[k] his nei3bors, 6 that han sacrifiede to Belphegor. And loo! oon of the sones of Yrael wente yn before his brytheren to a Madyanyte strompet, seeynge Moyses, and al the puple of the sones of Yrael, the whiche wepten before the 3atis of the tabernacle.
7 The which thinge whanne hadde seen Phynees, the sone of Eleazar, sone of Aaron, preest, roos fro the myddil of the 8 multitude, and, cau3t a swerd, wente yn after the man of Yrael into the hoorhows, and he stikide thur3 both togidre, the man, that is, and the womman, in the genytale places. And the veniaunce ce-
9 side fro the sones of Yrael, and there ben slawe foure and twenti thowsandis of men.
10 11 And the Lord seide to Moyses, Phynees, the sone of Eleazar, sone of Aaron, preest, hath tak awey my wrath fro the sones of Irael; for thur3 my loue he is styryd a3ens hem, that I my silf dide not awey the sones of Yrael in my gelouste.
12 Therfore spek to hym, Loo! I 3yue to hym
13 the pees of my boond of pees, and it shal be, as wel to hym as to his seed, euerlastynge couenaunt[l] of presthod; for he hath loued for his God, and hath purgid the 14 hidows synne of the sones of Yrael. The name forsothe of the man of Yrael, that was[m] slayn with the Madianyte, was Zambri, the sone of Salu, duke of the 15 kynrede of the lynage of Symeon. Forsothe the womman of Madianyte that togidre was slayn, was clepid Chobry, the dou3tre of Sur, moost noble prynce of goddis of tho dou3tris[i]; and Israel made 3 sacrifice to Belphegor. And the Lord was wrooth, and seide to Moises, Take thou 4 alle the princes[k] of the puple, and hange hem a3ens the sunne in iebatis[l], that my wodnesse[m], 'that is stronge veniaunce[n], be turned awai fro Israel. And Moises seide 5

24 catche 3ow. Bilde 3e thanne cytees to 3oure children, and fooldis and stablis to sheep and beestis; and that 3e han bi-25 hoot, fulfillith. And the sones of Gad and Ruben[g] seiden to Moyses, Thi seruauntis we ben; we shulen doo that the[h] 26 Lord comaundith. Oure litil children, and wymmen, and feeldbeestis, and hows-beestis we shulen leeue in the cytees of 27 Galaad; forsothe we thi seruauntis alle fulspede shulen goo to batayl, as thow, 28 lord, shalt speek. Thanne Moyses comaundide to Eleazar, the preest, and to Josue, the sone of Nun, and to the prynces of the meynees, bi the lynagis 29 of Irael, and he seide to hem, If the sones of Gad and the sones of Ruben with 3ow passen ouer Jordan alle armed,
to bateil before the Lord, and to 3ow were the loond suget, 3yue 3e to hem Ga-30 laad into possessioun; if forsothe thei wolen not passe with 3ow into the loond of Chanaan, among 3ow take thei places 31 of dwellynge. And the sones of Gad and the sones of Ruben answerden, As the til we bryngen hem in to her places; oure litle children and what euer thing we moun haue, schulen be in strengthid cytees, for the tresouns[p] of the[q] dwelleris[r].
We schulen not turne a3en in to oure 18
housis, til the sones of Israel welden[s] her eritage; and we schulen not axe ony thing 19
ouer[t] Jordan, for we han now oure possessioun in the eest coost therof. To whiche[u] 20 Moises seide, If 3e doen that, that 3e bi-heten, be 3e maad redi, and go 3e to batel bifor the Lord; and ech man fi3tere[v] be 21
armed, and passe[w] Jordan, til the Lord distrye hise enemyes, and al[x] the[y] lond be 22 maad suget to hym; thanne 3e schulen be giltles anentis God, and anentis Israel, and 3e schulen holde[z] the cuntreys, whiche 3e wolen, bifor the Lord. But if 3e doon not 23 that, that ye seien, it is not[a] doute to ony man, that ne 3e synnen a3ens God; and wite 3e, that 3oure synne schal take 3ou.
Therfor bilde 3e citees to 3oure litle chil- 24 dren, and foldis and stablis to scheep[b], and to beestis; and fille[c] 3e that, that 3e bi-hi3ten[d]. And the sones of Gad and of 25
Ruben seiden to Moises, We ben thi seruauntis; we schulen do that, that oure lord comaundith. We schulen leeue oure 26 litle children, and wymmen, and scheep[e],

DEUTERONOMY.

[Prologue on the book of Deuteronomy.]

In this book of Deutronomye ben contened the wordis whiche Moises spak to al Israel, in the wildernesse ouer Jordan, and declaride to hem the lawe; and schewide to hem, what goodis scholden bifalle to hem, if thei kepten the lawe, and also what yuels scholden bifalle to hem, if thei forsoken the lawe, and wurschipiden alien goddis, and the blessingis with whiche thei scholden be blessid, that kepten the lawe, and also alle the cursis bi whiche thei scholden be cursid, that breken the lawe. He delyuerede also Josue, the sone of Non, to hem, to be her leder, as he hadde be, and to departe to hem the lond of Canaan, and to counseile the Lord for hem, by Eleasar, prest. And Moises blesside the peple, and wente in to the hil of Nebo, in to the cop of Phasga, and the Lord schewide to him the lond, which he hadde bihote to Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob, her fadris; but Moises passide not Jordan, for he hadde wraththid the Lord in desert, and Moises diede there in the hil, and the Lord biriede him, and no man knewȝ his sepulcre[a].

Here [begynneth] the bok of Deutronomie[a].

CAP. I.

1 Thes ben the wordis that Moises spak to al Yrael, biȝonde Jordan, in the wijld feeldi wildernes, aȝens the reed see, bytwix[b] Pharan and Tophel and Laban and Asseroth, where is mych thing of 2 gold, bi enleuen days fro Oreb bi the wey of the hil of Seyr, vnto Cades Barne. 3 The fourteenthe ȝeer, the enleuenth[bb] moneth, the first day of the moneth, Moyses spak to the sones of Yrael alle thingis that the Lord hadde comaundid 4 to hym that he shulde seye to hem, after that he smoot Seon, the kyng of Amorreis, that dwellid[c] in Esebon, and Og, the kyng of Basan, that dwellid in Asseroth for alle the yuels that he hath doo, for 19 he hath[z] folwid[a] alien goddis. And so now wryte 3e to 3ow this songe, and teche 3e the sones of Yrael, that mynd-fulli[b] thei hoolden, and with mouth synge;

and this dyte be to me for witnessinge 20 among the sones of Yrael. Forsothe I shal leede hym into the loond, for the[c]
which I haue sworn to the fadris of hym,

the Lord comaundide to Josue, the sone of Nun, and seith, Tak coumfort, and be stronge; forsothe thou shal brynge yn the sones of Yrael into the loond that I haue bihoot, and I shal be with thee.

[Prologue on the book of Joshua[a].]

THIS book of Josue makith mynde, how the Lord spak to Josue aftir the deeth of Moises, and seide, Ech step which ȝoure foot schal trede, Y schal ȝyue to ȝou. Be thou comfortid, and be thou strong, for thou schalt lede yn the sones of Israel in to the lond, for which Y swoor to her fadris Abraham, Ysaac, and Jacob. And whanne the prestis that baren the arke of God hadden set her feet on the ryuer of Jordan, the watir departide and ȝaf weie, til al the peple of Israel were passid ouer; and the wallis of Jerico fellen doun, withouten mannes hondis. Also Josue fauȝt with alle the kingis of that lond, and ouercam hem, and made the princes of the oost to trede on the neckis of hem, and hangide hem in iebatis, as the Lord comaundide. And whanne enemyes fledden, the children of Israel pursuweden; and the Lord sente hail fro heuene, and killide mo with stones of hail thanne the sones of Israel myȝten take with swerd. And at the preier of Josue the sunne and mone stoden in the firmament, ouer his cours in the space of a dai, til the peple of God vengide it self of hise enemyes. And Josue departide the lond to the sones of Israel bi lot, by her lynages and meynees, with coordis; and Israel seruede the Lord in alle the daies of Josue.

of the hil that steieth vp to Seyr vnto Baalgath, bi the pleyn of Libany vndur the hil of Hermon; alle the kyngis of hem he took, and smoot, and slewȝ.
18 Myche tyme fauȝt Josue aȝens thes
19 kyngis; there was no[w] cyte, that took hym not to the sones of Yrael, saue Euee that dwellid in Gabaon; alle with fiȝtynge 20 he took. Forsothe the sentence of the Lord it was, that the hertis of hem weren ful hardid, and shulde fiȝte aȝens Yrael, and falle, and thei shulde not disserue eny mercy, but shulden perisshe, as the 21 Lord hadde comaundid to Moyses. In that tyme Josue cam, and slewȝ Enachym, fro the mownteyns of Ebron, and Dabir, and Anab, and of al the hil of Juda, and of Yrael, and the cytees of 22 hem he dide awey. He lefte not eny of the stok of Enachym in the loond of the sones of Yrael, out taak the cytees of Gaza, and Geth, and Azoto, in the[x] whiche 23 aloon thei ben left. Thanne Josue took al the loond, as the Lord spak to Moyses, and took it into possessioun to the sones of Yrael, after paarties and her[y] lynagis; and the loond restyde fro bateil[z].

'til to[f] Baalgath, bi the pleyn of Liban vndur the hil of Hermon; Josue took, and smoot, and killide alle the kyngis of tho[g] places. Josue fauȝt myche tyme aȝens 18 these kyngis; 'no citee was[h], which bitook 19 not it silf to the sones of Israel, out takun Euey that dwellide in Gabaon; he took alle[i] bi batel. For it was the sentence of 20 the Lord, that 'the hertis of hem[k] schulde be maad hard, and that thei schulden fiȝte aȝens Israel, and schulden[l] falle, and schulden[m] not disserue ony mercy, and schulden[n] perische, as the Lord comaundide to Moises. Josue cam in that tyme, and 21 killide[o] Enachym, that is, giauntis, fro the 'hilli placis[p] of Ebron, and of Dabir, and of Anab, and fro al[q] the hil of Juda, and of Israel, and dide[r] awei 'the citees of hem[s]. He lefte not ony man of the gene- 22

And goon out the side coostis into the see; forsothe Mathmethath biholdith the north, and enuyrouneth the teermys a3ens the est in Thanarselo, and passith fro the streme of Janoe; and goth doun fro Janoe into Atharoth and Noathara, and cometh into Jericho; and goth out to Jordan fro Thaphua, and passith a3ens the see in to the valey ful of reedis; and the goyngis out of it ben to the moost salt see. This is the possessioun of the lynage of the sones of Effraym, bi her meynees; and the citees ben seuerd to the sones of Effraym in the mydil of the possessioun of the sones of Manasse, and the towns of hem. And the sones of Effraym slewen not Chanane, that dwelt in Gaser; and Chanane dwellid in the mydil of Effraym vnto this day tribitarye.

CAP. XVII.

And the lot felle to the lynage of Manasse, forsothe he is the first goten of Joseph; to Machir, the first goten of Manasses, the fader of Galaad, that was a man fi3ter, and hadde the possessioun of Galaad and Basan; and to the relikis of the sones of Manasse, after her meynees; to the sones of Abieser[j], and to the sones of Heleph, and to the sones of Hesryel, and to the sones of Sichem, and to the sones of Epher, and to the sones of Semyda; thes ben the sones of Manasse, sone[k] of Joseph, maalis, bi her kynredis.

JUDGES.

[Prologue on the book of Judges.]

THIS book of Judicum makith mencioun, how the sones of Israel braken the boond of the Lord, and serueden aliene goddis, after the deeth of Josue, and of elder men that lyueden long tyme after the deeth of Josue, whiche hadden seyn the merueilis and grete dedis of the Lord, and othere men risen aftirward, whiche herden the comaundementis and domes of the Lord and diden alle thingis contrarie. Wherfore the Lord bitook hem in to the hondis of her enemyes, and weren maad tributaries to hem, and serueden hem; and whanne thei weren turmentid and angwischid greetli, thei crieden to the Lord; and he herde hem, and sente iugis, that is, domesmen, whiche delyuereden hem for a tyme, til thei eftsone hadden forȝete the Lord. And therfore the Lord lefte enemyes to hem, whiche thei myȝten not distrie, to punsche hem, whanne thei wenten awei fro the Lord, and fro hise comaundementis[a].

12 Sennym, and was biside Cedes. And it is told to Cysare, that Barach, the sone of Abynoem, hadde stied vp into the hil 13 of Thabor. And he gedryd nyn hundryd chaaris, ful of wepenys, maner of sithis, and al the oost fro Aroseth of gentilis to 14 the streem of Cyson. And Delbora seide to Barach, Rise, this is forsothe the day, in the[o] which the Lord hath taak Sysaram into thin hoondys; loo! he is thi leder. And so Barach descendide fro the hil of Thabor, and ten thowsand of fiȝt-
15 ynge men with hym. And the Lord feeryde Sisaram, and alle the chaaris of hym, and al the multytude, in the mouth of swerd, at the siȝt of Barach, in so myche that Sisara of the chaar lepynge Neptalym, and sche seide to hym, The Lord God of Israel comaundide to thee, Go thou, and lede an oost in to the hil of Thabor, and thou schalt take with thee ten thousande 'of fiȝteris[f] of the sones of Neptalym and of the sones of Zabulon. Sotheli[g] Y schal brynge to thee, in the 7 place of the stronde of Cison, Sisara, prince[h] of 'the oost of Jabyn[i], and his charis, and al the multitude; and Y schal bitake hem in thin hond. And Barach 8 seide to hir, If thou comest with me, Y schal go; if thou nylt[k] come with me, Y schal not go. And sche seyde to hym, 9 Sotheli[l] Y schal go with thee; but in this tyme the victorie schal not be arettide to thee; for Sisara schal be bitakun in[m] the hond of a womman. Therfor[n] Delbora roos, and ȝede with Barach in to[o] Cedes. And whanne Zabulon and Neptalym weren 10 clepid, he[p] stiede with ten thousynde of fiȝteris, and hadde Delbora in his felouschipe. Forsothe[q] Aber of Cyneth hadde 11 departid sum tyme fro othere Cyneys[r] hise britheren, sones[s] of Obab, 'alie of Moises[t]†; and he hadde set forth tabernaclis 'til to[u] the valei, which[v] is clepid Sennym, and was[w] bisidis Cedes. And it was teld to 12 Sisara, that Barach, sone[x] of Abynoen, hadde stiede[y] in to the hil of Thabor. And 13 he[z] gaderide nyn hundrid yronne charis[a], keruynge as sithis, and al the oost fro[b] Aroseth of hethene men to the stronde of Cison. And Delbora seide to Barach, 14 Rise thou[c], for this is the day, in which the Lord bitook[d] Sisara in to thin hondis; lo! the Lord is thi ledere. And so Barach cam doun fro the hil of Thabor, and ten thousynde of fyȝteris with hym. And the 15 Lord made aferd Sisara, and alle 'the charis of hym[e], and al the multitude, bi the scharpnesse of swerd, at the siȝt of Barach, in so myche that Sisara lippide doun of the chare, and fledde 'a foote[f]. [Prologue on the First book of Kings[a].]

In this book of Kingis the first is contened, how Anna, the wijf of Helchana, that was longe tyme bareyn, axide of God to haue a sone, and God ȝaf to her axing; which sone Anna ȝaf in to the seruyse of the Lord, in the tabernacle of boond of pees, vndur Heli the heiȝeste prest. And God chees Samuel, and spak to him alle thingis, and forsook Heli and hise sones, for wickidnesse that the sones diden, wherfore thei perischiden alle in o dai. And Samuel anoyntide Saul in to king on Israel; and whanne Saul fulfillide not the hestis of God, God forsook him; and Samuel anoyntide Dauith in to king, whanne he kepte hise fadris scheep; wherfor Saul hatide Dauith, and pursuwide him, til to the dai of veniaunce of the Lord cam; and Saul perischide, and hise sones, and al his hous.

shewid; and the name of the Lord Tetragramaton in summe Grece volyms vnto this day we han founden with oold lettris expressyd. But and the Salmys sixe and thretti[g], and the hundrid tenthe, and the hundryd enleueth, and the hundrid eiȝtenth[h], and the hundrid foure and fourtithe, albeit that thei ben wryten with dyuerse metre, neuerthelater thei ben weuyd[i] with[k] the abece of the same noumbre; and the Lamentaciouns of Jeremye, and the Preier of hym, and forsothe the Prouerbis of Salomon, in the eend, fro that place in whiche he seith, A strong womman who shal fynde, with the same abicees or markyngis ben noumbrid. Forsothe fyue dowble lettrys ben anentis the Ebrewis, Caph, Men, Nun, Phe, Sade; forsothe other wise thei writen bi thes the bigynningis and the mydils of wordis, other wise the eendis. Wherfore and fyue bokis, Samuel, Malachym, Dabreiamyn, Esdras, Jeremye with Cynoth, that is, his Lamentaciouns, ben eymyd of sum men dowble bookis. What maner wise therfor two and twenti elymentis ben, bi the whiche we wryten Ebrewly al that we speken, and mannus voyce with the bigynnyngis of hem is takun, so two and twenti volyms ben noumbrid, bi the whiche as bi lettris and bigynnyngis the tendre and the ȝit sowkynge childhod of the riȝtwise man is tauȝt in the doctrine of God. The first book anentis hem is clepid[l] Bresith, which we Genesis seyn; the secounde, Ellesmoth, `the which[m] Exodus is clepid[n]; the thridde is Vagetra, that is Leuytik; the ferth, Vagedaber, `the which[o] we clepen[p] Noumbre; the fifthe Abdabarym, `the which[o] is before notid Deutronomy. Thes ben the fyue bokis of Moyses, `the whiche[o] thei clepen[q] proprely Thoratli, that is, the lawe. The secounde ordre of the prophetis thei maken, and bigynnen fro Jesu[r], the sone of Naue, `the which[s] anentis hem is seid Josue Bennun. Lord Tetragramaton in summe bookes of Grew expressid with olde lettris vnto this day. But also the salmes of the Sauter, as the xxxvj. salm, and the hundrid and x. salm, and the hundrid and aleuene salm, and the hundrid and xviij. salm, and the hundrid and xliiij. salm, al be it that thei ben writen with dyuerse metre, netheles thei ben writen and wouen to gideris with the abece of the same noumbre; and the Lamentaciouns of Jeremye, and the Preier of him, and also the Prouerbis of Salamon, in the ende, fro that place in which he seith, Who shal fynde a strong womman, be noumbryd with the same abeces of merkyngis. Forsothe the fyue double lettris anentis the Ebrews ben thes, Caph, Men, Num, Phe, Sade; for bi these lettris thei writen other while the bygynnyngis and the myddes of wordes, and in anothir maner the endis. Wherfor these fyue bookes, Samuel, Malachim, Dabre Jamyn, Esdras, and Jeremye with Cynnoth, that is, his Lamentaciouns, ben gissid of sum men to be dowble bookes. Therfor as there ben xxij. lettris, by which we writen in manere of Ebrews alle thingis that we speken, and mannes vois taken with the bigynnynges of hem, so xxij. volyms ben noumbrid, by the whiche as by lettris and byginnynges the ȝonge tendre and ȝit soukynge childhod of the riȝtwise man is enformed in the doctryne of God. The first book anentis hem is clepid Bresith, whiche we clepen Genesis; the secounde, Elesmoch, which is clepid Exodi; the thridde, Vagetra, that is, the book of Leuyticy; the fourthe, Vagetaber, which we clepen Noumbre; the fyfte, Addabarim, the which is bifore notid Deutronomye. These ben the fyue bookes of Moyses, the whiche thei clepen propurly Thorath, what is to seie, the lawe. Thanne thei maken the secunde ordre of profetis, and bygynnen at Jhesu, the sone of Naue, that anentis hem is seid Josue Benum. Fro thennus thei ioyneden yn

Fro thens thei vndurweuyden[t] Sophym, that is, the book of Jugis; and into[u] the same thei putten[v] in Ruth, for in the days of Jugis don is toold hir storye. The thridde folowith Samuel, the which we seyn the Firste and the Secounde of Rewmys; the ferthe, Malachim, that is, of Kyngis, the which is conteyned in the thridde and the ferthe volym of Rewmys; and mych betere it is to seye Malachym, that is, of Kyngis, thanne Malathot, that is, of Rewmes; forsothe not of many folk he discriueth rewmes, but of oon Yrael puple, that is conteyned in twelue lynagis. The fifthe is Ysay; the sixt Jeremye; the seuenthe Ezechiel; the[w] eiȝtith the book of the twelue prophetis, the which[x] anentis hem is clepid[y] Thariasra. The thridde ordre weeldith Agiogropha, that ben holi wryten ensaumplis[z]. And the first book bigynneth fro Job; the secounde fro Dauyd, the which men holden in fyue dyuysiouns, and in o volym of Psalmys; the thridde is of Salomon, hauynge thre bokis, Prouerbis, that thei clepen[a] Parablis, that is, Masloth; the ferthe Ecclesiasten, that is, Coelech; the fifthe is Soonge of Songis, whom thei[b] before noten bi title Syrassyrym; the sixte is Danyel; the seuenthe[c] Dabreiamyn, that is, the wordis of days, the whiche more nameli we mowen clepe[d] the[e] Cronycle of al Goddis story, the which book anentis vs is wryten Paralypomynon[f] the First and the Secounde; the eiȝtthe Esdras, the which and he[g] lijk maner, anentis Grekis and Latyns, in two bokis is dyuydid; the nynthe Ester. And so ben maad togidre the bokis of the oold lawe two and twenti, that is, of Moyses fyue, of Prophetis eiȝte, of Agiografis, that ben expresse exsaumplis to holynesse, nyne; al be it that summe writen Ruth and Synoth among the Agiographis, and thes bookis in her noumbre thei wenen to be to[h] noumbrid, and bi that to ben of the Sophim, that is, the book of Juges; and in to the same thei putten in Ruth, for in the dayes of Juges her storie is teeld to be fulfillid. The thridde book folewith, that is clepid Samuel, which we seyn the Firste and the Secounde book of Kynges. The fourthe is Malachim, that is, of Kyngis, which is conteyned in the thridde and the iiij. volym of Rewmes; and myche betere it is to seie Malachym, that is, of Kynges, than Maletoch, that is, of rewmes; for he discryueth not the rewmes of many folkis, but the rewme of o puple of Israel, that is conteyned in xij. lynagis. The fifte is Isaie; the sixte Jeromye; the seuenthe Ezechiel; the eiȝte in the book of xij. profetis, that anentis hem is clepid Thariasrai. The thridde ordre weldith Agiografa, that ben hooly writen ensaumplis; and the firste book bygynneth fro Job; the secounde fro Dauith, which men holden in fyue dyuysiouns, and in o volym of Salmes; the thridde is of Salomon, hauynge iij. bookes, as Prouerbis or Parablis, that is clepid Maloth; the iiij. Ecclesiasten, that is clepid Coelech; the fyfethe is the Song of Songis, whom thei biforen seien bi title Sirassirym; the sixte is Daniel; the seuenthe Debraiamyn, that is to seie, the wordis of daies, the which more kouthly may be clepid the Cronycle of Goddis stories; the which book anentis vs is writen Paralipomenon the Firste and the Secounde; the eiȝtithe book is Esdras, the which also in lijk maner, bothe anentis Grekis and Latynes, is departid in to twey bookis; the nynthe is the book of Ester. And that is to seie, fyue booke of Moyses, and eiȝte bookes of the profitis, and neyne of Agiogrofis, that is to seie, of expresse ensaumplis of holynesse; al be it that sum men writun Ruth and Synoth among the Agiografis, and thei weenen that thes bookes shulden be rekened in her noumbre, and be that to ben xxiiij. bookes of olde lawe; which the Apocalips of Joon bryngeth yn, vndur the noumbre of xxiiij.

oold lawe foure and twenti bookis; the whiche vndre noumbre of foure and twenti eldris the Apocalips[i] of Joon bryngith yn, honourynge the loomb, and offrynge her crownes, the cheerys born doun, hem stondynge before the foure beestis eyed before and behynde, that is, biholdynge into that that is passid, and into that that is to comen, and criynge with contynuel voyce, Holy, Holy, Holi, Lord God Almyȝti, that was, and that is, and that is to comen! This prologe of[k] Scripturis as an helmyd bigynnynge to al the bokis 'the whiche[l] fro Ebrewe we han turned into Latyn, may acoorde, that we mowen knowe that what euere thing out of thes is, it is to be put among the Apographase, that is, among tho thingis whos autor is not knowun of al holi chirch. Therfore Sapiens, that comounli is wryten in of Salomon, and of Jesu, the sone of Syrak, and the book of Judith, and Toby, and Pastor, ben not in the canoun. I foond the Fyrst book of Machabeis Ebrewe; the Secounde is Greke, that may be proued of that settynge. The whiche thingis whanne thei so han hem, thou reder, Y biseche thee, ne eyme thou my traueyle the repreuynge of oold men. In the tabernacle of God ech man offreth that he may; other men gold, and siluer, and precious stones; other men bise, and purpur, and cocko[m] offren, and iacynct. With vs is wel doon, if we offren skynnys and heeris of she geet; and neuerthelater[n] the Apostle oure more[o] contemptible thingis shewith more nedeful. Wherfor and al the[p] fayrnesse of the tabernacle, and the distincciouu of the present, and of the chirche to comen, bi eche spicis is couered with skynnys, and with herys; tho that ben fowler thingis letten the brennynge of the sunne, and the harme of wederis. Thanne rede thow first Samuel, and myn[q] Malachym, myn forsothe, myn[r]; what euere thing forsothe ofter[s] turnynge and in amendeldris onourynge the lomb, and offrynge her crownes, with her cheris cast doun, and stondynge bifor the foure beestis that weren iȝed bifore and bihynde, that is to seie, biholdynge in to the tyme that is passid, and in to the tyme that is to come, and criynge with contynuel vois, without feyntise, Hooly, Holi, Holy, Lord God Almyȝti, that was, and that is, and that is to comen! This prologe of Scripturis as an helmed princeple mai acorde to alle the bookes which we han turned fro Ebrew in to Latyn, that we moun knowun that what euere writynge is out of these, is to be put amonge the Apocrifas, that is, amonge thilke wrytynges whos auctours ben vnknowe of alle hooly chirche. Therfore the book of Sapience, that comynly is writen to be the book of Salomon, and the book of Jhesu, the sone of Sirak, and the book of Judith, and Thobie, and Pastor, be not in the canoun. I found the Firste book of Makabeus of Ebrews langage; the Secounde book is Grew, that may be preued of the sittinge and of the speche. The which thingis, siththe thei han in sich manere, thou reder, I byseche thee, deeme thou not my trauayle to be maad in repreuynge of old men. For ech man offrith in to the tabernacle of God that he mai, aftir his power; sum men offren gold, and siluer, and precious stoonys; othere men offren biys, and purpur, and scarled, and iacynt. With vs it is weel, if we offren skynnes, and the heeris of geet; and netheles the Postle schewith opynly, that oure foule thingis and contemptible ben more needful than sum faire thingis. Wherfore al the fairnesse of the tabernacle, that was distincciouu and figure of hooly chirche that is now, and that is aftir to comynge, by alle her semelynesses is kyuerid with skynnes, and with heeris; and tho thingis that ben foulere letten the brennynge of the sunne, and the dispitousnesse of reynes and stormes. 6 day that is nowe. Forsothe the hoond of the Lord is greggid vpon the Azothis, and he wastide hem, and he smoot Azothe and his coostis in the more priue party of the arsis; and the towns and feeldis booyleden out in the mydil of that[m] regioun, and myis ben born; and there is doon a greet confusioun of deeth in the 7 cytee. Men forsothe of Azoth seynge siche a maner veniaunce seiden, Dwel not the arke of God of Yrael anentis vs; for hard is his hoond vpon vs, and vpon 8 Dagon oure god. And seendynge thei gedreden to hem self alle the maystris of Philistiens, and seiden, What shulen we doo of the arke of God of Yrael? And Gethey answerden, The arke of God of Yrael be turned about; and thei turneden about the arke of God of Yrael. 9 Forsothe hem turnynge it about, the hoond of the Lord of a greet slauȝter wel mych was doon vpon alle the cytees; and he smoot the men of ech cytee fro litil vnto more, and the arsroppis of hem goynge out stonken; and Gethey wenten into counseil, and maden to hem letheren 10 seetis. Thanne thei senten the arke of the Lord into Acharon. And whanne the arke of the Lord was comen into Acharon, Acharonytis cryeden out, seiynge, Thei han brouȝt to vs the arke of God of Yrael, that he sle vs and oure 11 puple. Thei senten thanne, and gedriden togidre alle the maystrys of Philistiens; the which seiden, Leeue ȝe the arke of God of Yrael, and be it turned aȝen into his place, and sle it not vs with oure 12 puple. Forsothe dreed of deth was maad in alle the cytees, and moost greuous was greetli the hoond of the Lord. Forsothe the men, that weren not deed, weren smyten in the priuyer party of the arsis, and the ȝellynge of ech cytee stiede vp into heuene.

11 It othinkith me, that I haue ordeyned Saul a kyng; for he hath forsokyn me, and my wordis he hath not fulfillid in dede. And Samuel is sory, and cryede 12 to the Lord al nyȝt. And whanne fro niȝt Samuel was rysen that he go to Saul eerli, it is toold to Samuel, for Saul was comen into Carmeel, and hadde arerid to hym an out shynynge tokne of victory in maner of a bow, and turned was passid, and goon doun into Galgala. Thanne Samuel cam to Saul, and Saul offred brent sacrifice to the Lord of the cheef of the preiys, that he brouȝte fro Ama-13 lech. And while Samuel was comen to Saul, Saul seide to hym, Thou blessid of[b] the Lord, Y haue[c] fulfillid the word of 14 the Lord. And Samuel seide, And what is this voys of flockis that rengith in myn eeris, and of droues that I here?
15 And Saul seith, Fro Amalech men han brouȝt thes thingis, forsothe the puple sparede to the betre sheep and drouys, for thei shulden be offrid to the Lord thi God; the tother forsothe we slewen.
16 And Samuel seide to Saul, Suffre me, and I shal shewe to thee what thingis the Lord hath spoken to me to nyȝt. And 17 he seid to hym, Spek. And Samuel seith, Whether not, whanne thou were a litil child in thin owne[cc] eyen, and thou art maad heed in the lynage of Yrael, and the Lord anoyntide thee into kyng vpon
18 Yrael; and the Lord sente thee into the weye, and seith, Go, and sle the synful men of Amalech, and thou shalt fiȝt 19 aȝens hem vnto the slauȝter of hem. Whi thanne hast thow not herd the voys of the Lord, but turnedist to the preye, and didist yuel in the eyen of the Lord?
20 And Saul seith to Samuel, If I haue herd the voys of the Lord, and haue repentith me†, that Y made Saul kyng[a]; for he forsook[b] me, and fillide[c] not my wordis in werk. And Samuel was sory, and he criede to the Lord in al the[d] nyȝt. And whanne Samuel hadde rise[e] bi nyȝt 12 to go eerly to Saul, it was teld to Samuel, that Saul hadde come in to Carmel, and hadde reisid[f] to hym a signe of victorye; and that[g] he hadde turned aȝen[b], and hadde passid[i], and hadde go doun in to Galgala. Therfor[k] Samuel cam to Saul, and Saul offride brent sacrifice to the Lord of the cheef thingis of preies, whiche he hadde brouȝt fro Amalech. And the while 13 Samuel cam to Saul, Saul seide to hym, Blessid be thou of the Lord, Y haue fillid[l] the 'word of the Lord[m]. And Samuel 14 seide, And[n] what is the[o] vois of flockis, that sowneth in myn eeris, and of grete beestis, whiche Y here? Forsothe[t] Samuel seide to Saul, 16 Suffre thou me, and Y schal schewe to thee what thingis the Lord spak[u] to me in the[v] nyȝt. And he[w] seide to Samuel, Speke thou. And Samuel seide, Whether 17 not, whanne thou were litil in thin[x] iȝen, thou were maade heed in the lynages of Israel, and the Lord anoyntide thee in to kyng[y] on[z] Israel; and the Lord sente[a] 18 thee in to the weie, and seide, Go thou, and sle the synneris of Amalech, and thou schalt fiȝte aȝens hem 'til to[b] sleyng[c] of hem. CAP. XVI.

And the Lord seide to Samuel, Hou 1 long biweilist thou Saul, sithen[f] Y castide[g] hym awey, that he regne not on[h] Israel; fille thin horn with oile, and come, that Y sende thee to Ysay of Bethleem; for among hise sones Y haue purueide a king to me. And Samuel seide, Hou schal Y 2 go? for[i] Saul schal here[k], and he schal sle me. And the Lord seide, Thou schalt take a calf of the droue in thi hond, and thou schalt seye, Y cam to make sacrifice to the Lord. And thou schalt clepe Ysay 3 to the sacrifice, and Y schal schewe to thee, what thou schalt do; and thou schalt anoynte, whom euere Y schal schewe to thee. Therfor[l] Samuel dide, as the Lord 4 spak to hym; and he cam in to Bethleem, and the eldere men of the citee wondriden, and camen[m] to hym, and seiden, Whether thin entryng[n] is[o] pesible? And he seide, 5 It is pesible; Y cam to make sacrifice to the Lord; be ȝe halewid, and come ȝe with me, that Y make sacrifice. Therfor[p] he[q]

22 And Dauid answerynge seith, Loo! the speer of the kyng, go oon of the children[v] of the kyng, and take it; forsothe the Lord shal 3eeld to ech man after his 23 ri3twisnes and feith; forsothe the Lord schalt[r] not answere? And Abner answeride, and seide, Who art thou, that criest, and disesist the kyng? And Dauith 15
seide to Abner, Whether thou art not a man, and what other man is lijk thee in Israel? whi therfor 'kepist thou not[s] thi lord the kyng? 'For o[t] man of the cumpanye entride, that he schulde sle thi lord the kyng; this that thou hast doon, is not 16 good; the Lord lyueth, for 3e ben sones of deeth, that kepten not 3oure lord, the crist[u] of the Lord. Now therfor se thou, where is the spere of the kyng, and where is the cuppe of watir, that weren[w] at his heed. Forsothe Saul knew the vois of 17 Dauid, and seide, Whether this vois is thin, my sone Dauid? And Dauid seide, My lord the[x] kyng, it is my vois. And 18 Dauid seide[y], For what cause pursueth my lord his seruaunt? What haue Y do, ether what yuel is in myn hond? Now therfor, my lord the[z] kyng, Y preye, here 19

CAP. XXVII.

1 And Dauid seith in his herte, Sumtyme on a day I shal falle in the hoond of Saul; whether is it not beter, that I flee, and be sauid in the lond[w] of Philisteis, that Saul dispeire, and ceese to seche me in alle the coostis of Yrael;
2 thanne flee we the hoondis of hym. And Dauid roos, and wente, he and sexe[x] hundryd men with hym, to Achis, the sone
3 of Maoth, the kyng of Geth. And Dauid dwellide with Achis in Geth, he, and his men, and his hows; Dauid, and his two wyues, Achynoem Jezralite, and Abigail,
4 the wijf of Naabal Carmele. And it is toold to Saul, that Dauid was flowen into Geth; and he addide no more for to seche
5 hym. Forsothe Dauid seide to Achis, If I haue founden grace in thin eyen, a place be ȝouun to me in oon of the citees of this regioun, that I dwelle there; forsothe whi thi seruaunt dwellith in the 6 citee of the kyng with thee? And so Achis ȝaf to hym in that day Sichelech, for the which cause Sichelech is maad of 7 the kyngis of Juda vnto this day. Forsothe the noumbre of the dais, in the whiche Dauid dwellide in the regioun of 8 Philisteis, was of foure monethis. And Dauid stiede vp, and his men, and brouȝten prayes of Gethsury, and of Gethry, and of Amalachitis; forsothe

Lord bitook thee to dai in to myn hond, and Y nolde[t] holde forth myn hond in to the crist of the Lord; and as thi lijf is 24 magnified to dai in myn iȝen, so my lijf be magnyfied in the iȝen of the Lord[u], and delyuere he me fro al angwisch. Therfor Saul seide to Dauid, Blessid be 25

weren gaderid in[t] Aphec, but also Israel settide tentis aboue the welle that was in Jezrael. And sotheli the princis of Fi- 2 listeis[u] 3eden in cumpenyes of an hundrid, and in thousyndis; forsothe[v] Dauid and hise men weren in the laste cumpenye with Achis. And the princes of Filisteis 3 seiden to Achis, What wolen these Ebreis to hem silf? And Achis seide to the princes of Filisteis, Whether 3e knowen not Dauid, that was the seruaunt of Saul, kyng of Israel? and he was with me in[w] many daies, 'ether 3eeris[x], and Y foond not in hym ony thing†, fro the dai, in which he fledde to me 'til to[y] this dai. Sotheli[z] 4 the princes of Filisteis weren wrooth a3ens hym[a], and seiden[b] to hym, The man turne a3en, and sitte[c] in his place, in which thou hast ordened hym, and come he not down with vs in to batel, lest he be maad aduer-sarie to vs, whanne we han bigunne to Whether this is not Dauid, to whom thei 5 sungen in daunsis, and seiden, Saul smoot in thousyndis, and Dauid smoot in hise ten thousyndis? Therfor Achis clepide 6

Dauid, and seide to hym, The Lord

II. KINGS.

[Prologue on the Second book of Kings[a].]

THIS secounde book of Kingis makith mencioun of the coronacioun of Dauith, first in Ebron bi the men of Juda, and aftirward in Jerusalem of al the peple of Israel; and of his werres; and how the Lord punischide Dauith with grete angwischis and disesis for the deeth of Vrie his seruaunt, and for the rauyschinge of Bersabee, the wijf of Vrie, and seide to him bi the profete, that werris scholden not ceese fro him in alle hise daies. Neuertheles the Lord louede Dauith, and ȝaf victorie to him of alle hise enemyes.

The secounde boke of Kynges[a].

CAP. I.

17 stedefast contynuli. After alle thes wordis, and after al this visioun, thus 18 spak Nathan to Dauid. Forsothe Dauid the kyng wente in, and sat before the Lord, and seide, Who am I, Lord God, and what myn hows, for thou hast 19 brou3t me hidir to? But and this litil is seen in thi si3t, Lord my God; 'that hast louyd me[d], but thou speke also of the hows of thi seruaunt into ferre heus. Forsothe this is lawe fro Adam, Lord 20 God; what thanne 3it Dauid shal mowe adde, that he speke to thee? Forsothe thow knowist thi seruaunt, Lord God; 21 for thi word, and aftir thin herte, thou hast doon alle thes greet thingis, so that thou shuldist make knowen to thi ser- 22 uaunt. Therfor thou art magnified, Lord God, for there is not lijk[e] of thee, ne there is God with out thee, in alle thingis 'the whiche[ee] we han herd with 23 oure eeris. Forsothe what is there folk of kynde as the puple of Irael in the loond, for[f] the which God wente, that he bie it to hym into a puple, and sette to hym a name, and make to hym greet thingis, and orrible vpon the[g] erthe, fro the face of thi puple, whom thou hast bou3t to thee fro Egipt folk and the god 24 of it? And thow hast fastned to thee thi puple Irael into a puple euermore, and thou, Lord, art maad to hem into a God. 25 Nowe thanne, Lord God, the word that thou hast spoken vpon thi seruaunt and vpon his hows, rere vnto euermore, and 26 do as thou hast spoken; and thi name be magnyfied vnto euermore, and be it seid, Lord of oostis God vpon Irael; and the hows of thi seruaunt Dauid shal be 27 stablid before the Lord; for thou, Lord of oostis, God of Irael, hast openyd the eer of thi seruaunt, seiynge, An hows I shal bilde to thee; therfor thi seruaunt my face, and thi trone schal be stidfast contynueli. By alle these wordys, and bi 17 al this reuelacioun, so[m] Nathan spak to Dauid. Forsothe Dauid the kyng entride[n], 18 and satt[o] bifor the Lord, and seide, Who am Y, my[p] Lord God, and what is myn hows, that thou brou3tist[q] me hidur to? But also this is seyn litil in thi si3t, my 19 Lord God; no but thou schuldist speke also of the hows of thi seruaunt in to long tyme. Forsothe[r] this is the lawe of Adam†, Lord God; what therfor may 20 Dauid adde[s] 3it, that he speke to thee? For[t] thou, Lord God, knowist thi seruaunt; thou hast do alle these grete[u] thingis, for thi word, and bi[v] thin herte, 21 so that thou madist[w] knowun to thi seruaunt. Herfor, Lord God, thou art mag- 22 nyfied[x], for noon is lijk thee, ne there is no God outakun thee, in alle thingis whiche we herden[y] with oure eeris. Sotheli 23 what folk in erthe is as the puple of Israel, for which‡ the Lord God 3ede, that he schulde a3enbie[z] it to him in to a puple, and schulde[a] sette to hym silf a name, and schulde do to it[b] grete thingis, and orible on[c] erthe, in[cc] castinge out therof[d] the folk[e] and[f] 'goddis therof[g] fro the face of thi puple, which[h] thou 'a3en bou3tist[i] to thee fro Egipt? 5 hem an hundrid charis. Forsothe Ciria of Damasc cam to bere socour to Adadezer, the kyng of Soba; and Dauid smoot of Ciria two and twenti thousand of men.

6 And Dauid putte a strength in Cirya of Damask, and Cirya is maad to Dauid seruynge vndir tribute. And the Lord kepte Dauid in alle thingis, to what euere 7 thingis he wente forth. And Dauid took goldun aarmys and bee3is, that hadden the seruauntis of Adadezer, and brou3te hem

5 Lodobar. Thanne kyng Dauid sente, and took hym fro the hows of Machir, 6 the sone of Amyel, fro Lodobar. Forsothe whanne Myphibosech, the sone of Jonathan, the sone of Saul, was comen to Dauid, he felle into his face, and lowtide. And Dauid seide, Myphibosech! The which answerde, I am ny3, thi ser-
7 uaunt. And Dauid seith to hym, Ne dreed thow, for doynge I shal do with thee merci for Jonathan, thi fader; and I shal restore to thee alle the feeldis of Saul, thi fader, and thou shalt eete breed
8 in my bord euermore. The which honouringe him seith, Who am I, thi seruaunt, whom thou hast biholdyn vpon a deed
9 hownd lijk of me? And so the king clepide Cibam, the child of Saul; and seide to hym, Alle thingis, what euere weren of Saul and al his hous, I haue 10 ȝeuen to the sone of thi lord; wyrk thanne the erthe to hym, thou, and thi sones, and thi seruauntis, and thou shalt brynge yn meetis to the sone of thi lord, that he be nurshid; Myphibosech forsothe, the sone of thi lord, shal eete euermore breed vpon my bord. Forsothe

CAP. IX.

And Dauid seide, Whether ony man is, 1
that lefte of the hows of Saul, that Y do a seruaunt, Siba bi name, was[y] of the hous

of Saul; whom whanne the kyng hadde clepid to hym silf, the kyng[z] seide to hym, Whethir thou art not Siba? And he an-sweride, Y am thi seruaunt. And the 3 kyng seide, Whether ony man lyueth of the hows of Saul, that Y do with hym the mercy of God? And Siba seide to the kyng, A sone of Jonathas lyueth, feble[a] he? And Siba seide to the kyng, Lo! he is in the hows of Machir, sone[c] of Amyel, in Lodabar. Therfor Dauid the kyng[d] 5 sente, and took hym[e] fro the hows of Machir, sone[f] of Amyel, fro Lodobar.

Forsothe[g] whanne Myphibosech, the sone 6 of Jonathas, sone of Saul, hadde come to Dauid, he felde in to his face, and wor-schipide[gg]. And Dauid seide, Myphibosech!
Which[h] answeride, Y am present, thi ser-

CAP. X.

1 Forsothe it is doon after thes thingis, that Naas, the kyng of the sonys of Amon, diede; and Anon, his sone, regn-2 ede for hym. And Dauid seide, I shal doo mercy with Anon, the sone of Naas, as his fader dide merci with me. Thanne sente Dauid comfortynge hym bi his serboord, and was[w] crokid[x] on either foot.

CAP. X.

Forsothe it was doon aftir these thingis, 1
that Naas, kyng of the sones of Amon, diede; and Anoon, his sone, regnede for hym. And Dauid seide, Y schal do mercy with Anon, 2
the sone of Naas, as his fadir dide mercy with me. Therfor Dauid sente coumfort-ynge hym by hise seruauntis on[y] the deeth of the fadir. Sotheli[z] whanne the seruauntis of Dauid hadden come in to the lond of the sones of Amon, princes[a] of the 3
sones of Amon seiden to Anon, her lord, Gessist thou that for the onour of thi fadir Dauid sente[b] coumfortouris to thee; and not[c] herfor David sente hise seruauntis to thee, that he schulde aspie, and enserche the citee, and distrie it? Therfor Anoon 4 took the seruauntis of Dauid, and scha-

III. KINGS.

[Prologue on the Third book of Kings[a].]

In this thridde book of Kingis is contened the ending of Dauith, and the coronacioun of Salomon, 3it lyuynge Dauith; and how the Lord magnyfied Salomon with wisdom, and richessis, and in al prosperite, for the loue of Dauith his fadir, aboue alle kingis that weren bifor him and after, and 3af to hym pees on ech side. Also how the rewme was departid in the daies of Roboam, sone of Salomon, in to tweie kyngdoms, but the Lord reseruede the kyngdom of Juda to the generacioun of Dauith, for the merit of Dauith; and of alle kingis that weren afterward on Juda and on Israel, in to the transmygracioun of Babiloyne.

Bersabe is goon yn to the kyng in the bedplace[h]; forsothe the kyng hadde eeldid ful myche, and Abisaag Sunamyte seru-16 ede to him. Bersabe bowid hir, and honourede the king; to whom the king, 17 he seith, What wolt thou to thee? The which answerynge seith, My lord kyng, thou swore bi the Lord thi God to thin runnen bifor hym. Nether[o] his fadir re- 6
